LOS ANGELES WALKS

Help Us Find Our First Policy and Program Manager!
Plus, See How LA Is Getting Serious About Safe Streets

We're Hiring Our First Full-Time Policy & Program Manager

Los Angeles Walks seeks an enthusiastic and experienced Policy & Program Manager to help take our volunteer-run organization to the next level. The Policy & Program Manager will be responsible for leading the Vision Zero campaign and coordinating with partners on this long-term campaign to improve pedestrian safety across the City of Los Angeles. This is a great opportunity to have a real impact on the city you live in and to help guide a small and growing organization. Find out how to apply here!

LA Is Talking About Safe Streets

It was an energizing week for pedestrian rights here in LA, with plenty of discussions in the media about what it will take to make the city safe and accessible to all walkers. The LA Times, LA Weekly, KPCC, Curbed LA, and other outlets released stories which are closely tracking the work that we're accomplishing here at Los Angeles Walks and prove that walking in LA is an ongoing narrative that many residents are interested in learning more about. Walk on Cool Summer Evenings

We're not the only ones offering walks around LA. Bob Inman is hosting a series of Night Walks all around Los Angeles. The walks will be exploring unique neighborhoods, parks, architecture, businesses and more. We're big fans of Bob's work and know these walks will be fantastic. It's a Crash, Not an Accident

There are no accidents when it comes to street collisions, and the new movement #crashnotaccident is hoping to spread the word through social media. Los Angeles Walks Steering Committee member Alissa Walker published an article at Gizmodo describing to us how every crash is attributable to poor street design and reckless driving.
